Date: November 13, 2009

The Ashland Police Department would like to advise the Ashland community to expect heavy traffic delays tomorrow throughout the Ashland area due to the annual Train Day event along Railroad Avenue and the football game between rivals Randolph-Macon College and Hampden-Sydney College to be held at Day Field on the Randolph-Macon campus.

Traffic will be most heavily congested between 9am-2pm and again from 4pm-6pm especially on England Street (Route 54.) Citizens, who are not planning on attending either event, may wish to consider an alternate route through town.

If you have any questions or concerns please contact the Ashland Police Department at (804) 412-0600.
